

FUNDRAISING TASK FORCE

July 2020

I spoke to a company called “Convergent Nonprofit Solutions” about helping AVVA to obtain a fundraising guide line. After a lengthy conversation with them about our organization, they felt that we were not ready for their company to help us at this time. Instead they suggested a beginner program for our organization, but after hearing they had a startup cost of $26,000 which at this time I find it to be completely unacceptable!

Joanna has found a company called “Charity How To”. After talking with them I have signed us up for three webinars which will take place this week and next week.

In the mean time I will be continuing my efforts on trying to obtain a dependable funding stream with a fundraising company.

I will keep everyone posted.
